Oshkosh, Jan. 25.—The state convention of the County Fair associations of Wisconsin will be held at the Athern hotel tomorrow afternoon. C. S. Wilson of De Pere, president, expects about fifty representatives of county fairs from various parts of the state.

shkosh, Jan. 25.—At the farm of C. Rogers, in the town of Oshkosh, Wis., here, an oil lamp used in hanging chickens, set fire to a large nest, suffocating 150 birds, valued from five to fifty dollars a piece. Many of these birds had taken prizes in various poultry shows. The loss was considerable.

Northwestern university students signed a petition presented to the faculty today urging that body to uphold baseball as a college sport in the western intercollegiate conference. The conference faculty committee at a meeting last month voted to refer back to the nine universities the question of abolition of the game as an intercollegiate sport.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Physicians at a local hospital early today said there was no change in condition of Miss Minnie Werner, 21, who fell from the sixteenth floor of the Transportation Building here yesterday, suffering injuries of a comparatively minor character. They said chances for her recovery were excellent. Miss Werner denied that she tried to commit suicide.

SIGN COACH MOAKLEY FOR CORNELL ELEVEN

Football Champion University "Beat Yale To It" In Obtaining Coach Under Contract.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Jan. 25.—The announcement that the Cornell University Athletic Association has signed Coach Jack Moakley to a ten year contract to train the Ithaca track team, is another example of the manner in which Cornell looks ahead in the matter of collegiate and intercollegiate sports. Moakley came to Cornell seventeen years ago and since 1899 has had charge of the track and cross country squads without a break. If he lives out the term of his new contract with Cornell, he will have served the Red and White for twenty-seven years—a record which is unequalled in this line of varsity sport at this time. Like Coach Corbitt of the rowing department, Moakley has become a fixture at Cornell. Some years ago after a notable victory for the Ithaca university track team, Moakley, like Courtney, was given a handsome home by the alumni and underclassmen so that today both Courtney and Moakley are as much a part of Cornell and Ithaca as the red and white themselves. Children have grown up and been graduated from Cornell and so far as one can look into the future Moakley will complete his active career at Cornell.

In signing Moakley to another long term contract, Cornell has taken time by the forelock and prevented any rival university from lifting the famous coach. The same method was pursued, to some extent, in the case of Dr. Al. Sharpe, the football coach, and as a result when Yale alumni expressed the desire that Sharpe return to Yale and lift the football to a winning plane, it was found that he was under a five year contract with four years yet to run. With Courtney, Moakley and Sharpe all signed up for some years, major sports at Cornell are in the hands of excellent coaches, satisfactory to students, alumni and faculty. No greater honor can come to a college than its selection as coach of an American Olympic Games team and at the next revival of this great international meet it is almost certain that he will be the coach for the Cornell team left vacant by Mike Murphy's death.

The two-day meeting of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee set for New York City, January 22 and 23 is not likely to develop any radical changes in the playing code for next season. Duke Davis, the Princeton University delegate to the meeting, in discussing possible action at the conference, said recently:

"From the East arises a cry that to secure a touchdown the ball should be actually touched behind the goal line. From the West comes a suggestion that the try for goal following a touchdown should be abolished. The movement to require the ball actually to be touched down behind the line to constitute a touchdown arises from the desire of spectators following two instances in the major games of the East in which some of the latter believed that the ball in each instance actually crossed the line, although the officials in these games ruled otherwise."

"The movement to abolish the goal following a touchdown has always had its advocates and has been strongly advanced many times before the Rules Committee. This goal after touchdown, however, has been and should be retained in the game because of its great historical interest, because it is an attractive feature of play and because of the sound argument has been or can be advanced that the three-point season of 1915 disclosed in the present rules."

RICHIE MITCHELL FIGHTS DRAW WITH JOE RIVERS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Cincinnati, Jan. 25.—Joe Rivers and Richie Mitchell of Milwaukee fought a good draw here last night. Rivers had the best of the fighting at the start, but the Milwaukee fighter weighed evened the honors in the last three rounds with his lightning left jabs.

LOCALS PREPARE FOR TRIP TO SPRING CITY

High School Basketball Players Will Have Game With Waukesha on Saturday In That City.

Last Friday's game with Madison was the first real defeat of the year for the Janesville high school basketball five. Madison had a good team and the best team always wins. The local high players are not at all discouraged and this week will be spent in some hard practice. Saturday night they will go to Waukesha for a game with the high school of that city. Reports from the Spring City say that their team is very strong this year. The game Saturday night will be played in their high school gym which is rather small. This might prove fatal, as it did at Edgerton two weeks ago, but in the practice this week efforts will be made to prepare for it.

The record of the locals this year so far has not been at all discouraging. In the five scheduled games that they have played two defeats have been rendered by their opponents. They have scored 104 points to the 82 against them. Richards and Weirick have been the chief scoring machines, having scored twenty-four baskets in the five games. It is expected that quite a number of followers will accompany the team to Waukesha Saturday night, and with the Janesville students at Carey College there will be quite a few local sympathizers.

CUB BOWLERS EASY FOR CRACK BLUE RIBBON FIVE: BOWL AT WEST SIDE ALLEYS

Last night the Blue Ribbon bowlers had little trouble in winning from the Cubs by a good margin. Hoveland was high man in the match with a score of 208 pins.

Elks' League.
Two fives from the Elks lodge engaged in a game last night and Team No. 1 won from the No. 2 squad by twenty pins. 168 was the high score in the match and Kimball received the honors.

West Side Alleys.
At the West Side alleys the married men tried to prove their superiority in bowling over the single men but failed. The match consisted of four events and the singles won by 429 pins. Hill rolled the high score for the evening when he knocked down 214 pins.

SEVERAL OF HARVARD'S NOTED PROFESSORS WILL BE ABSENT NEXT YEAR.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Cambridge, Jan. 25.—Several of Harvard's most prominent professors will be absent next year at the opening of the 1916-17 college year. Walter Clement Sabine, of the department of physics has been appointed exchange professor to France for the next year. Kun Francke has been granted a leave of absence for the whole of the next college year and will be replaced by the first half of it. Albert A. Shapira has been appointed assistant in anatomy and Samuel E. Morison, instructor in history. Frank J. Smiley, assistant in botany, has resigned in response to a demand for military instruction, a course in military medicine in the graduate school of medicine has been established with Major Weston P. Chamberlain, U. S. A., as lecturer. His work will begin this February. Gifts amounting to $43,987.84, of which the largest single item was $10,000 from the estate of J. Arthur Peabody for the general purposes of the university and $10,000 from Francis W. Hunsnewell for the Collis P. Huntington Memorial Hospital endowment fund, were received.

GEORGE BROWN IS ONLY MAN FROM U. S. A. TO GIVE LES DARCY REAL STIFF BATTLE

George Brown.

It remained for George Brown, the Chicago Greek, generally considered a "bo-so" performer in America, to give the sensational Les Darcy the best fight any United States man has made against the Australian backsmith since he attained a prominent position in the ring. Darcy got the decision at the end of twenty rounds in a battle a few days ago, but it was anything but a popular verdict.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

It does not look possible that Harry Sinclair, after selling the best of his string of players to the New York clubs, should want to buy the St. Louis Cardinals. He would have any such desire he would undoubtedly have made his bid for the St. Louis club before he sold Magee, Kauff and others to the New York clubs. While it is true that there are a lot of other Federal league players to be disposed of, the cream of the league has joined organized baseball, and it is decidedly questionable whether a winning team could be made out of the Cardinals with the Fed material which is left over.

The announcement by Manager Rowland of the White Sox that he would put Joe Jackson on the bench and use him only for pinch hitting has aroused the ire of the southern slugger, who insists that he will force Rowland to play him regularly by leading the league in batting in the next campaign. Joe has had that ambition for many years, but he has never been able to pass Ty Cobb in the average. The trouble with Jackson is that he has not the ambition to play winning ball. He does not hit as he ought to. Furthermore, he has not been taking the game seriously enough, and if he does what he threatens, he will have to get down to business and hustle.

"Bill" Phelon of the Cincinnati Times-Star tells a story which might be of interest to a lot of managers. Bill says it is very seldom that a slow runner can be trained into a sprinter, and yet this happened to a member of the Cincinnati team named Porter. The young man could not hit, but he was given a trial in the spring and then sent back to the minors. He placed himself in the care of a trainer, and last season developed into a wonderful sprinter, stealing seventy-one bases in 129 games.

Hy Brewer and others, prominently connected with the late Federals can tell stories of Kauff by the hour. In a double header in St. Louis last season the fielders all moved out when Kauff came up. Successful of the fact that they were playing out for him and that half a swing might drop the ball into a large expanse of safe territory, Kauff took a full wallop at the ball the first time he came to bat. By a fine winning catch Murrain pulled it down. Each time that Benny came to the plate practically the same thing happened. Finally, in the seventh inning of the second game, he did manage to clout the ball over the fielders' head for a home run. Then he came swaggering in to the bench, serene in the consciousness of a day's work well done.

Kauff turned and glared at him. "Lucky," he yelled. "Why, you big stiff, you were lucky that I didn't knock the ball down your throat—and the next time I will."

Kauff probably will come to terms with the Giants in the near future. As things stand now he must play with them if he plays at all, and he really loves the game. Moreover, he has a great desire to show what he can do in a major league. He is not content with being a Federal league player to the relative merits of his own batting and that of Ty Cobb, and he gives himself none the worse of it. The lively ball used in the Federal league may have had something to do with his batting average. Still, he thinks that he is the greatest hitter that ever faced a pitcher, and there is an old proverb that as a man thinketh in his heart, so he is.

There is a rumor to the effect that the new football system at Yale possibly may not be put into effect for another year. In this case, Frank Hinkley might be allowed to finish out his contract. Many believe that Hinkley will not be given proper support. It seems probable, however, that a new coach will be named. Anyhow, the committee must make some sort of a report in the very near future.

BASEBALL PLAYERS PLAY ON BOSTON BASKETBALL TEAM DURING WINTER.

Boston, Jan. 25.—Four baseball professionals wintering in Boston have agreed to play basketball on the tentatively organized Boston baseball five. They are Leslie Numamaker, the big Yankee catcher; Hal Janvria; Ham Connolly, who played third base and the outfield for the Washington Senators; and Ralph Maraville. It is expected that there will be no difficulty in filling out the team. Coach and manager Bob Fowler probably will try to get a game with a team similarly picked from the professional baseball men of New York City.

JOHNSTOWN

Johnstown, Jan. 24.—Linus, an eight-pound son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Len Morse in Harmony, Jan. 17th. Mr. and Mrs. Morse are former Johnstown residents. Congratulations are extended.

DOUBLE EXECUTION TODAY AT CITY OF BELLEFONTE, PA.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Bellefonte, Pa., Jan. 25.—Pennsylvania today had its first double execution since the gallows gave way to the electric chair in 1915. George J. March and Rowland S. Cunningham were put to death soon after daybreak at the new penitentiary near here. They killed S. L. Pinkerton in Delaware county more than two years ago. Pinkerton, a blackleg, had him and March kicked him to death as he lay before them begging for life. Pennington is said to be the first Quaker ever executed in Pennsylvania. "The man who stubbornly for life, carrying their case to the Supreme Court and then obtaining four reprieves in order to apply repeatedly to the Board of Pardons.

FOREIGNERS WILL NOT BE ALLOWED MINING CONCESSIONS IN KOREA.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Seoul, Korea, Jan. 25.—Foreigners and foreign juridical persons will henceforth not be allowed to take out mining concessions in Korea. This is the broad significance of the revised mining ordinance for Korea which was promulgated a few days ago and which will come into force on April 1. The new regulations possess great interest for foreign business interests.

Although a detailed translation of the ordinance is not yet available, a summary by officials indicates that an exception to the general rule favor of such foreign juridical persons as are recognized by the law of Japan. It is explained also that the new regulations will not affect those foreigners or foreign companies actually in possession of mining concessions. They have at perfect liberty to transfer their rights to other foreigners. The mining concessions secured by foreigners by arrangement with the former Korean government will also hold after the enforcement of the revised regulations. Tungsten and ten other minerals have been added to the list of mines which will come under the control of the new ordinance, the total of such minerals being increased to twenty-eight.

STEPHENSON TO DONATE PARK TO MARINETTE CITY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Marinette, Wis., Jan. 25.—Former Senator Isaac Stephenson will donate a park to this city within the next few months, according to information gained here today. The site of the proposed park is Stephenson's island which is already being filled in. The park will be donated with the principal restdence street in the city by a long foot bridge.

ENGLAND WILL MAKE CLAIMS AGAINST MEXICO

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
London, Jan. 25.—The Foreign Office is accumulating complaints regarding seizure of British property in Mexico, it was learned today, for presentation to the Carranza government. The inter-oceanic railway of Mexico has asked the government to find out when it can have back its lines. At the annual meeting of directors, Chairman Arthur Hill reported that the road was commandeered by the "government of Mexico" in 1914 and that he had no knowledge of its condition. The Guayule Rubber Company's properties were also commandeered in 1914, has lodged a protest with the Foreign Office.

B. H. BALDWIN HAS PARALYTIC STROKE AT THE ELKS' CLUB

Affects His Speech and Is Not Considered Serious Although Complications May Develop.

B. H. Baldwin, secretary of the Janesville Lodge 254 B. P. O. E., suffered a slight stroke at the Elks' club rooms this morning. It has affected his speech, and Dr. Van Kirk, who was called to attend him, stated that it was not serious in nature but other complications might arise later. Mr. Baldwin was conversing with friends when he suddenly sank into a chair. He did not lose consciousness but upon rallying he was quickly summoned and medical aid was taken to his home, 120 Linn street, where this afternoon he was reported as feeling much easier. He was apparently in the best of health when he left home and transacted considerable business as usual up to the moment of the attack. Mr. Baldwin is not only secretary of the Elks but also of the Knights of Pythias and previous to this served for many years on the Northwestern system, retiring on a pension several years ago. He served in the civil war with an Illinois cavalry regiment, was captured and a prisoner in Libby Prison for some months. News of his sudden illness will be received with anxiety by his many friends throughout the city.

AWARD THE CONTRACT FOR THE NEW LIGHTS

Industrial Foundry Company Successful Bidders.—Board of Public Works in Session.

Through a resolution passed by the board of public works in their session this morning, the contract for the improvement and lighting of the new system of ornamental lights for the city was awarded by the board to the Industrial Foundry Company of St. Johns, Michigan, their bid being the lowest and best in the opinion of the officials. The contract has not been drawn up and signed as yet, this matter being left until a "water-tight" contract can be submitted by Attorney W. H. Dougherty.

The board was in session for over two hours and discussed plans for the lighting system during the greater part of the time. All members agreed that the contract should contain the provision that the standards, lighting units and installation should be to the satisfaction of the board before the payment of the money. It was suggested that the poles be ordered and shipped here in an unappointed condition, in order to insure that first class material would be used as represented and demonstrated by the speaker.

The contract will be made under the agreement that the completed poles will cost twenty-eight dollars apiece. If the city decided that the desire to improve the lighting system, this cost will be deducted. The final bill will cost the city of Janesville about $25,250, as the combination compensator costing $2.75 will be paid for by the city. The electric company will be paid back to the city. The compensator is for either a four or six hundred candle power light, but the lamp itself is four hundred candle power.

It is probable that City Engineer C. V. Kerch will prepare plans for the standard and light desired by the board of public works and go to the factory at their expense to have the specifications adhered to.

The lighting unit is optional with the board of public works. Any glassware that the board decides upon will be used in the completed pole. It is probable that the board will order lights like the one on exhibition in front of the city hall, this being a brilliant light with the advantage of not showing the filament or light bulb.

The board also took up the matter of the contract for supplying light poles with the Janesville Electric company and it was decided that the contract will be closed within the next two days. This is to be drafted by Attorney Dougherty.

The board discussed the construction of a sewer from the intersection of Garfield avenue to give service to one or possibly two residents on Milton avenue, and objections were raised to the routing of the sewer that would necessitate the tearing up of the concrete-brick pavement on Milton avenue. The matter was left over until a later meeting and the board will conduct a further investigation.

The board will put the sewer on the route that was to go across the street on Milton avenue.

WILL RAISE FUNDS FOR HEBREW RELIEF

Day Set Aside By President Wilson to Raise Money for War Sufferers to Be Observed Here.

Efforts are being made in Janesville to secure an observation of Jan. 27, the day set aside by President Wilson as a special day to contribute toward the relief of the Hebrew war sufferers. Several Janesville residents are deeply interested in an endeavor to secure a fair sized fund from this city which will be forwarded to the Jewish committee in charge of the relief. Several contributions have already been made and others will follow. It is hoped, especially upon the day designated. The funds will be received at the Gazette office and will be forwarded to the proper organization. Hundreds of Jewish residents of Poland, Belgium and other war stricken countries are reported to be on the verge of starvation, while foodstuffs and clothing are selling at exorbitant and prohibitive prices.

The body will be interred in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

To Close Markets.

Just what tactics he will employ is still unknown, but it is expected that one of his first moves will be to close the Austrian border to foreign shipments for which specie is demanded. In this way "supply" will be reduced more eager for business than "demand" in other words the foreign seller would find the Austrian buyer less inclined to do business on a "gold exchange" basis.

Hand in hand with this would have to go a partial nationalization of the country's commerce and industry. The recent change has placed a very capable man at the head of the Austrian ministry of commerce, and the first thing he has done is to work to do what has been secured, it is thought.

Whatever the other details of the program may be, one thing is certain, and that is that the new chiefs of finance and commerce will make Austria and, by co-operation with, and on the part of, the Hungarian government, more economic self-contained than they have shown themselves in the course of the war. By doing this the gold stock will be kept in the country, and the demand for foreign money and credit will be decreased to such an extent that further depreciation of Austro-Hungarian paper will be warded off. Since the dual monarchy is financially sound internally, as the showing of the third war loan has shown the task of the new government will be to take a few remedial measures of the nature indicated above will meet, according to the judgment of interested circles.

CONSUMERS ICE CO. COMPLETES HARVEST

Finished Late Monday Afternoon Filling Their New House—City Ice Company Has Half Crop In.

Late Monday afternoon the Consumers' ice company completed filling their new five thousand ton ice house at the foot of Linn street with ice that averages fourteen to sixteen inches in thickness. This morning they found it impossible to continue work owing to the weakened condition of the ice and will delay filling the other storage houses they have contracted for until the next freeze-up. The City ice company was unable to work since the thaw and rains began and have their upper house about half filled with ice. The president Sam Tall of this company stated that he did not anticipate any difficulty in completing the harvest as everything would be ready to continue work on the next freeze-up. The ice obtained is excellent in quality and very clear.

LOWERING OF MONEY VALUES IN AUSTRIA

Depreciation in Money Due to the Fact That National Reserve Is Being Used for War

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Vienna, Jan. 25. (Delayed by Censor).—Formerly the American dollar was worth here 4.96 crowns, today it is 1.16. The depreciation of money of Austria-Hungary's allied states is much above par. Normally 100 crowns cost 80 marks, while today one may buy them at about 20 marks.

This depreciation of the crown, in some cases nearly 40 per cent, would be a serious matter for Austria-Hungary where the causes of the economic native related to peace instead of wartime conditions. The Austro-Hungarian crown is low for the reason that the paper currency of the country, based principally on the national gold reserve, is being deprived of its base by the many purchases the country has made in foreign markets for which the actual metal, gold, had to be exchanged. With her allies, Austria-Hungary still trades on the normal basis of credit, resting on an exchange of merchandise and through neutrals from the enemy even nothing but the actual transfer of gold suffices. So far Austria-Hungary has been obliged to deplete her national gold stock and reserve to exactly what the average of depreciation of the crown indicates, roughly speaking 20 per cent.

The case is analogous to that of Great Britain in her trade relations with the United States. After having realized the much credit as possible by transfer to American holders of a much commercial paper owned in Great Britain, the value of the pound sterling is being kept up by shipping specie to New York. Austria-Hungary has been doing the same thing, though not with the same success because her gold reserve was never nearly as great as that of Great Britain.

The exchange in the Austrian ministry of finance, made day before yesterday, is directly related to the problem of bettering the standing of the Austro-Hungarian work to date and the limitations of imports for which gold must be surrendered will be an important part. At the outbreak of the war not enough gold was given up, it is said, to stiffening up by Austrian banks would have kept much gold in the country, but this would have taken a financial organization which Austria did not have. The new minister of finance, Dr. Leth is looking upon the man who will supply this. Having successfully managed for years the Austrian postal savings institution, floated a number of large Austrian loans in the United States, England and France, and recently managed the three war loans which the country has raised, he has not only the confidence of his own people but also high standing in foreign money markets. It is said.

To Close Markets.

Just what tactics he will employ is still unknown, but it is expected that one of his first moves will be to close the Austrian border to foreign shipments for which specie is demanded. In this way "supply" will be reduced more eager for business than "demand" in other words the foreign seller would find the Austrian buyer less inclined to do business on a "gold exchange" basis.

THE TRUTH--and the PROOF

"WORDS AND PROMISES ARE ONLY GOOD WHEN BACKED UP BY DEEDS."

This axiom is just as true today as it was when Socrates uttered it hundreds of years ago.

And I attribute my success as a specialist, principally to the fact, that I never attempt to treat cases that are incurable, and second, that I back up my claims by absolute proof.

DR. N. A. GODDARD

HERE IS THE PROOF:

They Say I Cure

Do You Believe Them?

WRITE TO THEM AND SATISFY YOURSELF. Such Proof can not be manufactured or imitated.

Little Suamico, Wis., 1-8-12.

Dear Doctor:—After taking seven treatments, I am entirely cured of rupture which I had for six years. I did not lose a moment's time from my work, suffered no pain or inconvenience.—Am satisfied in every way. Feel well in every way. You may refer to me.

ARTHUR VIRTUES,
R. F. D. No. 1, Little Suamico, Wis.

Black Creek, Wis., 2-17-13.

Dear Doctor:—It is with pleasure that I write you to say that after treating with you I am completely cured of Chronic Appendicitis and Gall Stones. Other doctors wanted to operate. I weigh 130 lbs. more than I did when I started treatment. I was sent to you by a lady who cured of Gall Stones two years ago. You may refer to me at any time.

MISS MARTHA SCHINKE,
R. F. D. No. 33, Box 4,
Black Creek, Wis.

Cured of Neurasthenia.
Jan. 8, 1915.

Dear Doctor:—This is to tell you that I am now in good shape and that I feel warm and comfortable this winter, instead of cold all the time as I was last winter. I thought at that time that there was no hope for my ever getting well; what a change this winter! I can do as good a day's work as one and have regained my vitality and strength. I look well and am actually a new man. Our local Doctor failed to give me any good and I am mighty glad I came to you for treatment for I am certainly a well man now. You may refer to me anyone wishing to hear from one whom you have treated. I am glad to recommend you.

JOHN CALLAN,
Route 22, Hortonville, Wis.

Beaver Dam, Wis., Nov. 23, '15.

Dear Sir:—Answering your letter of the 20th I am pleased to say that Dr. N. A. Goddard's treatments have been entirely satisfactory. I consider myself cured of my rupture and believe taking treatment (made careful investigation of previous cases where he claimed to have had good results. I have never worn a truss since and have no bad effects or annoyance.

Very truly yours,
C. A. STARKWEATHER,
Beaver Dam, Wis.

I treat all Chronic Diseases of both Men and Women. Rupture, Chronic Appendicitis, Gall Stones, Gout, (without operation) Varicose Veins and Ulcers, Blood and Nervous Troubles.

NEWS NOTES from MIDLAND

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne will next be seen in "Man and His Soul," scheduled to be released January 31. This five-part production promises to be notable among screen achievements and it will be the most elaborate feature in which Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne have yet appeared. The theme of this really distinctive photodrama deals with conscience. In an allegory the creation of the world is shown. Then is seen a realistic sand-storm, one of the film scenes which was made in Florida. In the midst of the storm is shown the birth of conscience.

The next scene, also made amid the everlastings of the sand dunes, shows the Garden of Eden where conscience again appears and possesses Adam and Eve. Down through the ages, the development of conscience is demonstrated, until the present day is reached. Conscience is then seen atop a skyscraper in New York city, looking over the great city and weeping that the city is almost devoid of conscience.

SOME NOTED STARS IN NEW RELEASES

The general policy of the newest of all feature organizations, will consist in presenting the world's most famous stars this to include film stars as well as stars of the legitimate stage—in productions averaging five reels in length. These subjects will be interspersed with weekly intervals commencing with Monday, January 24, "Secret Love," based upon Frances Hodgson Burnett's world-famous novel, "The Little Princess."

The foreign producers have asked for the privilege of contributing efforts to the program. An example of what may be expected in this direction are "Dorothy Dore," in which Sarah Bernhardt stars, "Rupert of Hentzau" and "Shulinita," directed by George Tucker, the man who produced "Traffic in Souls."

Hattie Williams, comedienne extraordinary, has begun work for the photoplay world in a studio in Los Angeles. Her screen debut will be made in a picture version of "Detective Spikes," in which she appeared some years ago in "legitimate" theaters.

Robert Warwick will soon appear here in the production of "The Ambition of Mark Trutt."

Edna Goodrich in "Armstrong's Wife." The Lasky Feature Play company in bringing Miss Edna Goodrich, most beautiful of American actresses, before photoplay audiences of the Apollo on Wednesday, takes special pride in this announcement. Miss Goodrich will make her photoplay debut in the dramatic feature, "Armstrong's Wife," by Margaret Turnbull. The star only recently returned to the United States after a year of nerve-racking experience as a nurse in war hospitals in Europe. Her own beautiful home near London is now being used for convalescent wounded.

"Armstrong's Wife" provides Miss Goodrich with those opportunities which her dramatic talent which has given her fame here and abroad. She appears as a young woman, for whose affections two men are seeking. Disappointed in unhappy and discouraged a few months with one of them who she discovered was married, May, as portrayed by Miss Goodrich, consents to see herself in the Canadian wilderness with her lover, a young man who offers his name only to her. Subsequently, at a meeting of the three principals in this strange case, wrong is righted.

"BELLA DONNA" A TALE OF SOPHISTICATION

Production and Acting of Miss Frederick Alton Warrant Praised.

A gown for every scene, and there were countless numbers of them, was the accomplishment of Pauline Frederick in the picturization of the novel and play, "Bella Donna," at the Apollo yesterday. Her rapid change of costume gave her an opportunity of displaying an over large wardrobe.

"Bella Donna" is a production of finesse and sophistication. As a picture it is most effectively handled and well done, including her demise in the drifting sands of the desert. It has precedent for the doing in its stage presentation and yet it is a novel tale, with little brightness in it. There is no particular reason for the telling of such a story, in spite of the fact that the telling of it on the screen was done in a manner to bring great credit to the producer and Miss Frederick.

TOO WEAK TO FIGHT

The "Come-back" man was really never down-and-out. His weakened condition because of over-work, lack of exercise, improper eating and living demands stimulation to satisfy the cry for a health-giving appetite and the refreshing sleep essential to strength. GOLD MEDAL, Haartem Oil Capsules, the National Remedy of Holland, will do the work. They are wonderful. Three of these capsules each day will put a man on his feet before he knows it, whether his trouble comes from uric acid poisoning, the kidneys, gravel or stone in the bladder, stomach derangement or other ailments that befall the overzealous American. Don't wait until you are entirely down-and-out, but take them today. Your druggist will gladly refund your money if they do not help you. 25c, 50c and $1.00 per box. Accept no substitutes. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on every box. They are the pure, original, imported Haartem Oil Capsules.

MILWAUKEE SUFFERER TRIED JUST ONE DOSE

Ben Behling Gave Up Hops Before He Found Remedy—Happy Now.

Ben F. Behling of 959 South Avenue, Milwaukee, was a sufferer from malady of the stomach and digestive tract for a long time. He gave up hops.

At last he discovered Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. He took a dose just to try it. The results were remarkable. He wrote:

"I was in such bad condition that I had given up hope of ever getting well again. I sent to you for one dose of your remedy and took it the same day you sent it. It has worked wonderfully. I took five more bottles, one each week. I am now a new man again. I thank you a thousand times for the good you did me."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee. If not satisfactory money will be returned.

How To Make the Quickest, Simplest Cough Remedy

Much Better than the Ready-Made Kind and You Save $2. Fully Guaranteed.

This home-made cough syrup is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy. Its promptness, ease and certainty in conquering distressing coughs, croup and throat colds, is really remarkable. You can actually feel it in the hold. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough—relieves even whooping cough quickly. Splendid, too, for bronchitis, spasmodic cough, bronchial asthma and winter cough.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you—at a cost of only 30 cents—a full pint of better cough syrup than you could buy for $2.50. Takes but a few minutes to prepare. Full directions with Pinex. Tastes good and never soured.

You will be pleasantly surprised how quickly it loosens dry, hoarse or tight coughs, and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quinine, which is so healing to the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, be sure and ask your druggist for "2½ ounces Pinex," and don't accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., T. Wayne, Ind.

The Lone Wolf

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright, by Louis Joseph Vance.)

She nodded earnestly. "It would be worse than criminal to return them to Ekstrom."

"That's my view of the matter."

"But these?" The girl rested her hand upon the jewel case.

"Those go back to Mme. Omber. She has a home here in Paris that I know well. In fact, the sole reason why I didn't steal them here was that she left for England unexpectedly, just as I was all set to strike. Now I purpose to use my knowledge of her house to restore the jewels without risk of falling into the hands of the police. That will be an easy matter. And that brings me to the one great favor I would beg of you."

She gave him a look so unexpectedly kind that it staggered him. But he had himself well in hand.

"You can't leave Paris now before morning—thanks to my having overslept," he continued. "There's no honest way I know to raise money before morning opens the pawnshops. But I'm hoping that won't be necessary. I'm trusting I can arrange matters for us without going to that extreme. Meanwhile—you agree that these jewels must be returned?"

"Of course," she affirmed gently.

"Then—will you accompany me when I replace them? There won't be the slightest danger. I promise you that. Indeed, it would be more hazardous for you to wait for me elsewhere while I attended to the matter alone. And I'd like you to be convinced of my sincerity."

"Don't you think you can trust me for that as well?" she asked with a flash of humor.

"Trust you?"

"To believe, Mr. Lanyard," she told him earnestly, "I do believe!"

"You make me very happy," he said.

"But I'd like you to see for yourself. And I'd be glad not to have to fret about your safety in my absence. As a bureau of espionage, Popinot's brigade of Apaches are without a peer in Europe. I'm positively afraid to leave you alone."

She was silent.

"Will you come with me, Miss Shannon?"

"That is your sole reason for asking this of me?" she insisted, eying him steadily.

"That I wish you to believe in me."

"Why?" she pursued, inexorable.

"Because—I've already told you."

"That you want someone's good opinion to cherish. But why, of all people, me—whom you hardly know, of whom what little you do know is hardly reassuring?"

He colored, and boggled his answer.

"I can't tell you," he admitted in the end.

"Why can't you tell me?"

He stared at her miserably. "I've no right. In spite of all I've said, in spite of the faith you so generously promise me, in your eyes I must still figure as a thief, a liar, an impostor—self-confessed. Men aren't remade by mere protestations, nor even by their own efforts, in an hour, or a day, or a week. But give me a year. If I can live a year in honesty, and earn my bread, and so prove my strength—then, perhaps, I might find the courage, the—the effrontery to tell you why I want your good opinion. Now I've said far more than I meant or had any right to. I hope, I ventured pleadingly, you're not offended."

Only an instant longer could she maintain her direct and unflinching look. Then his meaning would no more be ignored. Her lashes fell, a tide of crimson flooded her face, and with a quick movement, pushing her chair a little from the table, she turned away from him. But she said nothing.

He remained as he had been, bending eagerly toward her.

And in the long minute that elapsed before either spoke again, both became oddly conscious of the glances brooding in that lonely little house, of their isolation from the world, of their common peril and mutual dependence.

"I'm afraid," Lanyard said after a time—"I'm afraid I know what you must be thinking. One can't do your intelligence the injustice to imagine you haven't understood me—read all that was in my mind and—his voice fell—"In my heart, I own that I was wrong to speak so transparently, to suggest my regard for you at such a time, under such conditions. I am truly sorry, and beg you to consider unsaid all that I should not have said. After all, what earthly difference can it make to you if one thief more decides suddenly to reform?"

That brought her abruptly to her feet, showing him a face of glowing loveliness, with eyes distractingly dimmed and softened.

"No!" she implored breathlessly.

"Please, you mustn't spoil it! You've paid me the finest of compliments, and one I'm glad and grateful for—and would I might think I deserved! You say you need a year to prove yourself? Then—I've no right to say this—and you must please not ask me what I mean—then I grant you that year. A year I shall wait to hear from you from this day we part, here in Paris. And tonight I will go with you, too, and gladly, since you wish me to!"

And then as he, having risen, stood at loss, thrilled and incredulous, with a brave and generous gesture she offered him her hand, across the table whereon still rested the spoils of his final coup.

"Mr. Lanyard, I promise."

To every woman, even the least lovely, her hour of beauty—it had not entered Lanyard's mind to think this woman beautiful until that moment. Of her exotic charm, of the allure of her pensive, wistful prettiness, he had been well aware, even as he had been unable to deny to himself that he was all for her, that he loved her with all the strength that was his—but not till now had he understood that she was the one woman whose loveliness to him would dim the beauty of all other women.

And for a little, while he held her hand tremulous upon his finger-tips, as though he feared to bruise it with ruder contact, he could not take his eyes from her.

Then reverently he bowed his head and touched his lips to that hand—and felt it snatched swiftly away, and started back, against the idyl roughly disrupted, the castle of his dreams tumbling in thousands round his ears.

In the studio skylight overhead a pane of glass had fallen in with a shattering crash as ominous as the tramp of doom.

CHAPTER XVII.

"For That's Impossible."

Like a blow from an unseen hand the shock of that alarm drove the girl back from the table to the nearest wall and for a moment held her there transfixed in panic.

To her wide, staring eyes that questioned his so urgently Lanyard promptly nodded grave reassurance. He hadn't stirred after his first involuntary start, and before the last fragment of splintered glass had fallen tinkling to the floor above, he was calming her in the most matter-of-fact tones.

"Don't be alarmed," he said. "It's nothing—merely Solon's skylight gone smash!"

"But call that nothing!" she cried gustily. "What caused it, then?"

"My negligence," he admitted gloomily. "I might have known it—that wide spread of glass, with the studio electric full ablaze below, would give the show away completely. The house is known to be unoccupied, and it wasn't to be expected that both the police and Popinot's crew would overlook so shining a mark. And it's all my fault, my oversight. I should have warned you about the lights! High time I was quitting a game I've no longer the wit to play by the rules!"

"But the police would never—"

"Certainly not. This is merely Popinot's gentle method of informing us he's on the job. But I'll just have a look to make sure. No—stop where you are, please. I'd rather go alone."

He swung alertly through the reception hall window, pausing there only long enough for an instantaneous reconnaissance through the draperies—a fugitive survey that discovered the Impasse Stanislas no more abandoned to the wind and rain, but tenanted visibly by one, at least, who lounged beneath the lonely lamp-post, a shoulder against it—a featureless civilian silhouette with attention fixed on the little house.

But Lanyard didn't doubt that this one had a dozen fellows skulking with in call.

Springing up the stairs, he paused prudently at the topmost step, one quick glance showing him the huge rent gaping black in the middle of the skylight, the second the missile of destruction lying amid a litter of broken glass—a brick wrapped in newspaper by the look of it.

Swooping forward, he retrieved this and darted back from the exposed space beneath the shattered skylight barely in the nick of time, for he had no more than cleared the threshold than a second something fell through the gap and buried itself in the hardwood parquetry. This last was a bullet fired from the roof of one of the adjoining buildings, confirming his prior reasoning that the first missile must have fallen from a height rather than have been thrown up from the street to wreak such destruction with those tough, thick panes of clouded glass.

Swearing softly to himself, he descended to the kitchen.

"As I thought," he said coolly, exhibiting his find. "They're on the roof of the next house—though they've stationed a sentry in the street, of course."

"But that second thump—the girl demanded."

"A bullet," he answered, placing the bundle on the table and cutting the string that bound it. "They were on the cul de sac and fired the instant I showed myself beneath the skylight."

"But I heard no report," she retorted.

"A Maxim silencer on the gun, I fancy," he explained, unwrapping the brick and smoothing out the newspaper. "Glad you thought to put on your hat and coat before you came down," he added with an approving glance; "it wouldn't be safe to go up to the studio again—of course."

His nonchalance was far less real than it seemed, but helped to steady one who was holding herself together with a struggle.

"But what are we to do now?" she stammered. "If they've surrounded the house—"

"Don't worry—there's more than one way out," he responded, frowning at the newspaper; "I wouldn't have picked this place out otherwise. Nor would Solon have rented it in the first instance had it lacked an exit in event of creditors. Ah—thought so!"

"What?"

"Trojan's is gone," he said, without looking up. "This is tonight's Presse. Totally destroyed by fire which started at six thirty this morning and in less than half an hour had reduced the ancient structure to a heap of smoking ashes!" He ran his eye quickly down the column, selecting salient phrases: "Believed to have been of incendiary origin, though the premises were uninsured—that's an intelligent guess! 'Narrow escape of guests in their—whayemaycallem. 'Three lives believed to have been lost—one body recovered, charred almost beyond recognition—Roddy's, of course—poor devil! 'Two guests missing, Mr. Lanyard, the well-known connoisseur of art, who occupied the room adjoining that of the unfortunate detective, and Mlle. Bannan, daughter of the American millionaire, who himself escaped only by a miracle after his secretary, M. Greggs, the latter being overcome by fumes—what a shame! 'Police and firemen searching the ruins—h-m, h-m—'extraordinary interest manifested by the prefecture indicates a suspicion that the building may have been fired to conceal some crime of a political nature.'"

Crushing the newspaper between his hands Lanyard tossed it into a corner.

"That's all of importance. Thoughtful of Popinot to let me know this way! The prefecture, of course, is humming like a wasp's nest with the mystery of that telegram signed with Lanyard Stepped Out into the Darkness.

Roddy's name and handed in 'at the Bourse an hour or so before he was 'bourned to death—no wonder! Too bad I didn't know then what I do now; I'd even remotely suspected Greggs' association with the Pack was via Bannan. But what's the use? I did my best possible, knowing the odds were heavily against success."

"What was written on the paper?" the girl demanded obliquely.

He made his eyes blank. "Written on the paper—"

"I saw something in red ink at the head of the column. You tried to hide it from me, but I saw. What was it?"

"Oh—that!" He laughed contemptuously. "Just Popinot's impudence—an invitation to come out and be a good target."

She shook her head impatiently.

"You're not telling me the truth. It was something else, or you wouldn't have been so anxious to hide it."

"Oh, but I assure you—"

"You can't. Be honest with me, Mr. Lanyard. It was an offer to let you off if you'd give me up to Bannan—wasn't it?"

Dinner Stories

There is a certain little fellow into whose heart his mother has been for some time striving to instill the sentiment of generosity, which, to her regret, did not appear to be naturally present. The son of a poor family of the neighborhood she had particularly commended to her boy's consideration. The other day he came in with beaming face.

"You know Tom, that poor boy?" he said eagerly. "Well, I gave him half that box of candy you gave me!"

How to Sell Real Estate Through Want Ads

In advertising real estate (improved or unimproved farm lands or city or suburban property) through the Want Ad columns, be guided by the nature of your offer. This includes location, kind of land, market facilities, improvements, price, terms, etc.

The real estate Want Ad also embraces something else. If you do not get in touch with prospective buyers, change your copy. There are several ways of saying the same thing, and often the way that appears as most reasonable to you, does not strike the prospective buyer in the same light.

Real estate presents more than one aspect. Ideas of a series of Want Ads on a tract of land, or a farm, will be found in the following:

The Want Ad a Land Salesman

WOMAN'S PAGE

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"If you are going up to Kansas City this week, let me beseech you, in the name of all you hold dear, to go to a good tailor and have yourself measured for a suit of clothes. You have not a decent suit to your back. Ortrude looked her husband up and down critically and down critically. It was not three months old. That was a very expensive suit, and, according to my notion, should be good enough for any man," Jacob Townsend said. "I was annoyed at his wife's criticism, especially as it was made before a number of people."

"That wedding suit! I never saw a thing fit worse. The cloth is good, but the lines are the house again."

"It does not!" flamed Marian, looking indignantly at Ortrude. "It gives me a waist line like a woman's," Ortrude continued, not noticing the interruption. "I nearly disgraced myself by laughing at the wedding." Ortrude's face was wreathed in smiles as she recalled the impression.

"A wedding is a very solemn occasion," remarked Mrs. Orland. Jacob's widowed sister who lived on a farm near Falmouth, and thought it would take more than clothes to make one want to laugh.

"Oh, I don't know. Torgery and weddings are pretty intimately connected in most people's minds," Ortrude seemed to take delight in shocking the staid, old-fashioned woman. Dudley wondered if it was to prevent his aunt from coming to the house again.

"Some people put too much emphasis on clothes," Mrs. Orland looked fixedly at the dancing eyes and laughing face of the young wife. "Such thoughts are too trivial to occupy the attention of the serious minded. They are too transitory and passing."

"Yes, styles do change rapidly," replied Ortrude, drawing her face down solemnly.

"The catechism reads that the chief end of man should be—"

"The revised catechism would read, 'Serve clothes and enjoy them forever,'" said Marian, bursting into the conversation.

"Why, Marian!" exclaimed Aunt Myra.

"Should say creed instead of catechism; at least clothes are what some people live for." She looked defiantly at Ortrude.

Dudley noticed that his father was eating no dinner and looked distressed at the jarring notes in the conversation and he determined to come to the rescue.

"Can't we talk of something besides clothes?" he asked cheerfully. "As far as Daddy is concerned, we have always been satisfied with the way he looked. Of course we are just plain country people and are not competent to judge perhaps as those who have been accustomed to wealth and society."

Ortrude's face flushed at this shot from an unexpected quarter. Dudley had always been scrupulously polite to her.

"How are the calves, Aunt Myra? It is almost as good as going to the zoo to see your live stock," and Dudley proceeded to smooth the ruffled plumage of the guest. Jacob breathed a sigh of relief as the conversation was steered into safe channels.

When she rose from the table Ortrude said:

"I know you will cheerfully allow me to go to my room for a nap so that you can visit with your relatives."

Mrs. Orland made her a stiff bow, and Marian dropped a mock courtesy and a kiss after her retreating figure, a look of fierce hatred on her face. She had never enjoyed Aunt Myra's visits, but she realized that she was "down on the bride," so there would be a new bond between them from now on.

"Well, Jacob, I must say—" began the sister, but the compulsion to speak died out when she looked at her brother's face.

"Well, Dudley, I think we had better be getting back to the store. Good-bye, Myra. You'll stop into the store on your way home, I suppose." And then left the room. (To be continued.)

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson
Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am nineteen years old and have been keeping steady company with a fellow four years my senior. Almost every time he called to see me, he would come to my place, and I enjoyed being in his company. For he was a gentleman and I certainly treated him with respect. He went with a girl about a year ago and she was engaged to her, but she turned him down for another fellow. It seems he cannot forget her, and he is continually talking about her when in my company. He has told me how much he thought of me, too. It seems strange, for if he thinks as much of me as he said I cannot understand why he talked so much about his other girl. I made me very angry and told him not to call anyone. I also thought by telling him not to call anyone I could test his love for me. If he really cares for me I think he would write and explain things he called me up. I think a great deal of him and I wish to ask your advice.

A man likes a girl or he wouldn't seek her company. The man of whom you speak probably loves the other girl, but likes you and enjoyed your company. His feelings are in a super-sensitive state just now because of his recent disappointment. When you told him not to call again he probably felt that he was merely another indication that he was not pleasing to girls. While he is so sensitive you cannot expect him to disregard what you said and come in spite of it. When you meet him be just as pleasant as ever and act as though nothing had happened. For you to do anything further, it seems to me, would be unwise. He was very tactless to talk to you about the other girl and you were justified in resenting it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: There is a boy in town that my father wants me to go with. He thinks a great deal of me and I think the same of him. One of my girl friends is crazy about him and I feel awfully bad. She is fourteen and he is twenty. Is it all right for me to go with him?

BLONDY

Of course it is all right for you to go with him. Your friend must realize that you are his choice and if he cared to go with her he would.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am eighteen years old and am in love with a boy of seventeen. He works at the same place as I and I am in doubt whether he really loves me or not. He tells me he does and then he goes with another girl and tells her he likes her better than he does me. I love him and so I cannot give him up. You tell me how I can win his love?

(2) Shall I allow him to kiss me? If so, how many times? He is very nice, but when I let him kiss me once he gets angry and I don't let him kiss me more than that. Can I break him of this?

G. I.

(1) He is too young to know whether he loves anybody or not. At least most young men are very inconsistent.

(2) Don't let him kiss you at all.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been in the city for a short time and have met a man who seems to be very gentlemanly. I have no place to entertain him. He has asked me to meet him at his office. Would this be indiscreet?

BBT

It would be indiscreet to meet him at his office. If he wants to take you somewhere ask him to meet you at the door of your place of business or at your boarding house.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl seventeen years old and have been going with a fellow for six months. How often should he call each week?

(1) Should he kiss me good night?

(2) How late should he stay when he calls?

THELMA.

(1) Once or twice.

(2) No.

(3) Until ten or ten-thirty.

DOES UNSELFISHNESS PAY?

"Do you think she'd put herself out like that for you?" the Authorman's wife asked scornfully.

The lady who always knows-somehow had been doing most of the housework for a sick neighbor for the past two weeks and was looking paler and more tired than we like to see her. Just at the moment she was sitting before the fire knitting mittens for some youngster. That is her idea of resting. "She probably would, but I don't see what that has to do with it," she answered severely, without looking up from her knitting.

"Why should you do things for people who wouldn't do as much for you?" persisted the Authorman's wife.

"Why shouldn't I?" said the Lady-who-always-knows-somehow.

The Authorman's wife gave an impatient shrug, the lady went calmly on with her knitting, and the subject was dropped.

Why Should They Argue?

Which was quite as it should be. There wasn't the least use in their arguing any more because they were both actually incapable of seeing the matter from the same angle.

There are some people who simply can't get anything but a reciprocal conception of giving. "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours," may be the vulgarest, but it certainly describes the attitude of many people.

And I am afraid that many more of us who have grown a little beyond the crudity of such frank bargaining, still have a haunting feeling that when we do things for people we thereby lay them under an obligation to be willing to do as much for us. And when we fail to receive a due return we are apt to feel that "after all, unselfishness doesn't pay."

When Is Unselfishness Not Unselfishness?

As if it would be unselfishness if it did pay!

A young friend of mine has recently made the discovery that selfish people are apt to get the most consideration from others because other people are afraid of them. He is much struck with this discovery, and, like all young philosophers, fancies

SABRE UMBRELLA COMING IN VOGUE

Miss Helen Herendeen dancing "The Spirit of Patriotism."

To be real smart one must nowadays, according to the fashion mentors, carry an umbrella in a case resembling a sabre, dangling from the wrist. This mode is probably due to the military spirit invading Europe. The dress is suitable for the first balmy days of spring and is of taupe colored velvet. The skirt is exceedingly high waisted, and a bolero effect is given the waist by the ruffling passing over and under the shoulders.

that he is the first person who ever found that out.

Furthermore, I regret to say, like many young people who make this discovery, he draws from it the corollary, "Therefore, it is better to be selfish."

It is Better To Be Selfish If—

Well, so it is, if one's ideal is to get through life in the easiest, most comfortable way.

If you have other ideals, that's quite another matter.

Living for what you will get out of it, either in reciprocal gifts or services, or in gratitude, or in admiration for your unselfishness is not a very safe or satisfactory investment. . . . is for the sake of what you put into it rather than what you get out of it.

If anyone doubts that this kind of giving is a safe and satisfactory investment, I can only wish that he might see the serene and happy face of the Lady-who-always-knows-somehow. I do not think he would doubt after that.

Household Hints

Orange Straws. Remove peel from four thin-skinned oranges. Cover peel with cold water, bring to boiling point, cook slowly until drained. Drain, remove pulp, and scoop by scraping with a spoon, and put yellow in portion in thin strips, using scissors.

Boil half cup water and one cup sugar until sirup will thicken when dropped from tip of spoon. Add strips of peel and let boil five minutes. Drain and coat with fine granulated sugar.

THE TABLE.

Steak Roll, Tomato Sauce—One and one-half pounds round steak, three slices bread (soaked), three onions cut in sage, pepper and salt to taste. Make into a roll and lay on baking pan. Take one can tomatoes, boil and strain, add seasoning and one large tablespoon flour, then water to make a quart. Pour over meat and bake till done. Baste often.

Cheese Fondue (with food value of one pound potatoes and one pound beef, served without meat or potatoes)—One and one-half cups stale bread crumbs, 1/4 cup grated cheese, three or four eggs, one cup hot water, one-half teaspoon salt. Add thoroughly beaten yolks to bread, cheese, salt and water, mix (or fold in) stiffly beaten whites carefully (to retain the air and fluffiness). Put in buttered baking dish and bake slowly thirty minutes; or fry five minutes until it sets.

Fruit Salsa—One can pineapple (fruit only), one and one-half cups sugar, six bananas (sliced), three oranges (sliced), one envelope Knox gelatin. Drain juice of pineapple and measure; add to it boiling water enough to make one quart, then add sugar. Take part of cup of cold water, add gelatin (any good kind may be used) and let stand five minutes. Then stir into the boiling water (or fruit juice) or sugar. Let stand until it commences to curdle, pour over fruit. Serve when cold, with whipped cream. Nuts and grapes may be added.

Mayonnaise. Dressing—Mayonnaise dressing is usually considered a cult achievement, but is not, it is a few simple principles are kept in mind. In the first place all the materials must be kept cold, and the wise ones will keep the bowl and the ingredients cold in a pan of ice water during the process. Secondly, the oil must be added in very small quantities at first, and the mayonnaise must be kept on ice and tightly covered until used. For a pint of mayonnaise, enough for several salads, put a level teaspoonful of dry mustard into a white earthen bowl with a smooth rounded surface. Add a half teaspoon salt, dash of paprika and yolks of two fresh eggs, unbeaten. Stir until well mixed, then begin to add oil. Three drops will suffice at first, and the dressing must be rubbed with the back of a silver spoon rather than stirred. When smooth, more oil may be added in larger quantities, but no more than a teaspoonful at a time, until one cup of

YOUNG AMERICAN GIRL ORIGINATES DANCE, "THE SPIRIT OF PATRIOTISM"

Miss Helen Herendeen, a sixteen-year-old American girl who attracted wide attention in European capitals before the war as an interpretative dancer, has originated a dance called "The Spirit of Patriotism." She rendered this dance for the first time at the recent patriotic ball in New York, which was attended by many civil and military officials.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LIVING ON TERMS WITH THE LIVER.

There is a widespread fancy that certain drugs have some vague, but beneficial influence upon the liver. There is a made-to-order notion to go with this idea, a notion that vague pains in vague situations, and vague states of mind are symptoms of "liver complaint" and indicate the use of some of these alleged liver remedies.

Salts—salts—whether in natural spring water or in fancy packages, undoubtedly do help to reduce portal engorgement. That is to say, if one eats too heartily, occasionally or habitually, a saline cathartic in sufficient dose to produce two or three watery evacuations will directly lower blood-pressure in the portal area (the veins conveying blood to and through the liver), and thus gives some relief, but temperance in eating, abstinence or fasting if necessary, will prevent what the saline only helps. It is more sensible not to pack in the excess of food, than to stuff as a matter of habit, and then resort to a cathartic to force a passage through the alimentary canal.

And then there are numberless "dum-dums" made and sold under the implied idea that they do something or other to that liver. Of course no laxative has any special affinity or selective action on the liver, not even the well-known calomel, except in the imagination of the patient.

"Liver trouble" is mostly leg trouble—the victim doesn't walk enough to keep the blood circulating in the legs, and the legs are too often the leg trouble is short trouble—fashionable shoes built with oil has been used. With the second cup of oil, one may risk two or three teaspoonfuls at a time, but "waste makes waste." The yolk of each egg will take up one cup of oil. When all the oil is absorbed and the mixture is so thick that it seems like a stiff batter, add lemon juice to taste, and a few drops of tarragon vinegar.

Good Doughnut Recipe—Three large or six medium-sized potatoes mashed, one tablespoon butter, one-half teaspoon salt, stir well all together until light; add three eggs, two cups sugar, one cup sweet milk, five teaspoons baking powder sifted in six cups of flour (to start with; much more as needed), but sugar doughnuts evenly and easily, let doughnuts get very cold, then take a medium sized paper sack, put in three-fourths cup pulverized sugar (confectionery sugar), using more as you need it. Then take doughnuts, a few at a time, put in the sack and shake well. When taken out they are covered evenly.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Dryness of the Air of Houses. Is the air of furnace-heated houses too dry in winter weather?

Answer—Not if the temperature is kept around 68. It becomes too dry when the temperature soars above 68.

Source of the Air Warmed by Furnace. Is it objectionable to admit air from the cellar into the intake pipe of a hot air furnace?

Answer—Yes. The air should come from outdoors always.

Marasmus and Malnutrition. What causes "marasmus and malnutrition" in babies?

Answer—These are meaningless terms used as a cloak to ignorance. They are neither symptoms nor diseases, nor even "complaints," but just words.

The Results DO Take Care of the Cost

The services rendered by The GAZETTE WANT AD in most instances far outweigh the cost.

By a careful system of classification, the small want ad is made as easily found as the large ad. Yet the cost is kept low on the WANT AD.

From the discovery of The GAZETTE WANT AD in Janesville dates the discovery of real efficiency in filling wants.

As a careful "buyer" in the home or the business the GAZETTE WANT AD should appeal to you.

Something To Color

HIS CAKE

Freddie's Birthday

Have you ever had a birthday cake like Freddie's? It is a great big chocolate cake with white frosting. What is there in this picture that tells you Freddie's age? Each candle is a different color, a red, a blue, a yellow, a green, and an orange. The little flames which leap from the candle wicks are easy to color. Just put on a little yellow color and then over this a little red, with a tiny bit of blue. Freddie has a new blouse for his birthday present. Color his hair yellow, tie blue, blouse blue and trousers light brown. His shoes are black and his stockings white. The picture next week will be "Marjorie's Colored Blocks."

ECONOMY ISSUE IN ENGLAND OVER THE GREAT COST OF LAW

Lawyers and Judges Subject To Censure For Drawing Down Such Fat Salaries When Country Is In Need.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Jan. 25.—The heavy toll of the lawyers is the text for many complaints in these days when economy is being urged by the government and the public alike. The lawyers are being urged to practice economy, but their salaries are being urged to be reduced. The government is being urged to reduce the salaries of the lawyers, but the lawyers are being urged to practice economy. The government is being urged to reduce the salaries of the lawyers, but the lawyers are being urged to practice economy.

The three highest legal officials of the government, and a considerable body of judges, draw large salaries. The highest officers of the navy and army, whose duties often involve physical hardships and the risk of death, are poorly paid in comparison with those who represent the government in the courts. Today the people are beginning to ask why this should be, and members of the democracy in politics are asking the question insistently. It has become a burning topic with the Democratic organs of the press. Why should the Lord Chancellor, whose duties are largely ceremonial, be paid more than five times the stipend Admiral Jellicoe receives, is a frequent query.

Attack Offices. The most shining target for attack. That office is now costing the government $125,000 a year. It commands a salary of $50,000 and a pension of $25,000. Lord Buckmaster is drawing the salary, and three living predecessors, Lord Halsbury, Lord Haldane, and Lord Hewart, are receiving pensions.

Lord Halsbury has been in the office for ten years and has been receiving for ten years a salary of $50,000 and a pension of $25,000. Lord Buckmaster is drawing the salary, and three living predecessors, Lord Halsbury, Lord Haldane, and Lord Hewart, are receiving pensions.

and services of its members. The roll of lawyers in Great Britain is far smaller than in the United States and there are far more handsome plums to be distributed. Admiral Jellicoe's services are bringing him financial reward of less than $10,000 a year, and Sir John French, Field Marshal, commanding the British Army in France, was on the pay sheet for $5,000. At the old time of public life in Great Britain, there was a reason in theory for payments to the legal members of the cabinet, and officers of the crown, higher than of work. Most statesmen came from the old families, the traditional ruling caste. They were supposed to be men of hereditary wealth who were willing to give their services for the public welfare, while the legal officials were professional men who must sacrifice their private practice when holding office. In the later day of democracy, however, the Liberal party, whose members include a large number of lawyers, the old tradition does not apply. The Prime Minister, the Home Secretary, the Minister of Munitions, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and several lesser members of the government are lawyers, yet draw far smaller incomes than their colleagues performing more important duties. From another point of view the financial burden of the law falls less heavily upon the country as usual. War conditions have brought great decrease of business for the legal profession. "The lawyers are starving," wailed a barrister to an editor, discussing a libel suit. "Thank God," was the brutal reply.

AGED CIVIL WAR VETERAN CALLED TO WORLD BEYOND

Clinton, Jan. 24.—Truman Delavan Northway was born at Canastota, Ontario, Jan. 24, 1835. He was married to Miss Sarah Elizabeth Turner June 18, 1861. To them were born two children, Mary Elizabeth, now Mrs. Joel Kings, of Tully, N. Y., and William S., of Clinton, Wis. He enlisted in the Civil War in 1864. Served his country faithfully in Co. B, 155th New York Volunteer Infantry, to the end of the war.

Mr. Northway lived in Kansas a year or two before moving his family to Clinton in the spring of 1882. For a number of years he was engaged in the delivery of cheese boxes to the cheese factories for many miles around. He was appointed janitor of the Methodist Episcopal church in March, 1882, a position he held for thirty years, and in which capacity many will best remember him. He was also street commissioner for many years and filled other village offices.

He was a charter member of the Alexis Tullman Post, G. A. R., and took much interest in the organization. For several years his health has been failing and last spring he suffered a slight stroke of paralysis. In the fall he decided to go to the National Soldiers' Home in Milwaukee. His son took him there the first of November, placing him in the hospital department for treatment.

He passed away Wednesday, Jan. 19, 1916, at 5:40 p. m. The body was brought to Clinton and the funeral held from the Methodist church Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. Rev. A. W. Triggs officiating. Sons of Veterans were chosen as pallbearers and were escorted by the remaining members of the G. A. R. and the C. V. C.

Mrs. V. A. Mayhew was called Saturday noon on account of the very sudden illness of her sister, Mrs. Mary McKee, who resides at Watertown, New York.

A. Woodard left Saturday for Oklahoma to spend the balance of the winter with his son, George, and family.

H. A. Moehlenpab and R. C. Stewart attended a democratic meeting at Burlington last Thursday.

The sermons of Rev. C. E. Ewing Sunday morning and evening were well attended and greatly enjoyed by the large congregations present. Rev. W. Ireland occupied Rev. Ewing's pulpit at Jansville.

The water was so high in the small creek east of Jansville that the milk butler could not get across the bridge, which was four feet under water, and the patrons this side had to each one bring their milk.

On account of weather conditions being unfavorable, work on the improvements at the Bowman Dairy company's plant could not be started last week. The fireman's dance Friday night was a great success in every particular. Large crowd, good music, good singing by Booster quartette, and the violin solos by Miss Gustafson, the child wonder, were exceptional fine. The attendance was a little below last year on account of the inclement weather, but more tickets were sold than last year, being 212 this year to 167 last year. It was in several ways the most enjoyable of the series ever given here and the new fire company are to be congratulated on the manner the entire event was conducted.

Dr. Harry Harrison was unable to return to Beloit Friday night on account of the high water and was a guest for the night of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Switzer.

Installation of the newly-elected officers of the Knights of Pythias lodge will be held Tuesday (tomorrow) evening. Every member is earnestly urged to be present.

SUPPLIES FOR GERMANS SHIPPED TO RELIEVE THOSE IN THE SIBERIAN PRISONS

Tien Tsin, Jan. 25.—More than two thousand tons of clothing and other supplies for Germans interned in Siberia have been shipped from Tien Tsin to Vladivostok by the American Red Cross. At the request of Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, the American minister to China, R. M. Burr, of the faculty of Tsingyang University, located in Tien Tsin, and Dr. Charles Siler, physical director of the Tien Tsin Young Men's Christian Association, have gone to Siberia to assist in the distribution of supplies.

William Warfield, the special representative delegated by the American state department to inspect prison camps in Siberia, and Frederick A. Sterling, formerly second secretary of the American legation in Peking, and now specially assigned to Petrograd, will also co-operate in this relief work. John K. Caldwell, the American consul at Vladivostok, is in charge of the distribution of money for the relief of the interned Germans in Siberia, and most of them are some distance from the Trans-Siberian Railway line. Consequently, the work of distribution is extremely difficult.

Evansville News

NANCY WYOTT WHO DIED SATURDAY WAS BORN IN 1830.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Evansville, Wis., January 25.—Nancy Wyott was born in Durhamshire, England, January 11th, 1830 and was one of a family of ten children, who came to America in April, 1854. The family settled in New York, and that same year her mother and father died.

On July 4, 1854, she was united in marriage at Chautauque, New York, to Charles W. Hyne. Shortly after their marriage they came to Wisconsin settling on the farm now known as the "Springbrook" or Byron Campbell farm, and where they resided the year. They then moved to the farm known as the "H. Jones place," where they lived until Mr. Hyne's death in 1878, when she moved to Evansville where she has ever since made her home.

She passed away peacefully Saturday morning after a brief illness with a gripe. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. L. H. Jones, and four sons, Ed, Will and George, all of this city, and three brothers, Samuel J. Wyott, of Dickens, Iowa, Frank, of Kasson, Minn., and James of Toledo, Ohio.

When a young girl she united with the Baptist church and has been active in church organizations during her residence in this city, where her loss is deeply felt. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from St. John's Episcopal church, Rev. Le Roy John officiating. Interment being at Maple Hill cemetery.

Personals. Mrs. Geo. F. Spencer, very pleasantly entertained at a miscellaneous shower Saturday night for Miss Alice Holden whose engagement to Edgar Horn is announced.

Mrs. H. Long of this city received word that her nephew, Archie Wood, of Magnolia, severed an artery in his right hand Sunday, and is suffering considerable pain therefrom.

Miss Anna Noyes is visiting relatives and friends in Sun Prairie. Miss Stella Conradson of Madison spent Sunday in this city with her sister, Miss Della Conradson.

Miss Jessie Kelley spent Sunday at her parental home in Orfordville where she was called by the illness of her sister.

Miss Vera Rowley spent the week end at her parental home at Jansville. Miss Ruth Wilson spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Madison.

Mrs. James Powles is on the sick list. Miss Ethel Van Wart of Madison spent Saturday and Sunday here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Wart.

Miss Martha Holmes who is attending Girl's college at Rockford, spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Holmes. She was accompanied by Miss Marie Ferguson and Frances Hartwig, who were her house guests over Sunday.

Miss Beth Baker of Madison spent Friday night here with her parents. Mrs. Guy Barnard is on the sick list.

Mrs. Joe Porter of Cooksville was an Evansville shopper Monday. Mrs. F. E. Colony has been quite ill the past week but is a little better.

Mrs. A. E. Johnson and Charles Hyne of Jansville were here yesterday to attend the funeral of their grandmother, the late Mrs. Nancy Hyne.

Miss Winnifred Lewis, who has been so very ill for the past few weeks at the Dr. Smith Sanitarium, expects to leave the hospital Saturday.

Mrs. F. A. Baker and daughter, Mrs. Beth, were Jansville visitors Saturday.

Beth Cain and Theodore Van Wart have returned from Magnolia where they attended the basketball game.

Mrs. Frances Price of Albany, was an Evansville visitor yesterday. Mrs. Alma Andrews of Magnolia, was an Evansville shopper Monday.

Mr. Howard C. Magnolia was a business visitor here yesterday. Walter Chapin left yesterday for Orfordville, where he will be in the employ of the Cordage Light and Power company for several days.

Leonard Eager of Madison, was the guest of his mother yesterday. William Klusmeyer was a Jansville business visitor yesterday.

Floyd Morgan was a Madison visitor yesterday. Miss Hallie Weaver of Chicago, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Weaver, returned to her work yesterday.

Mrs. Ed. Roberts of Rockford, is visiting her mother, Mrs. M. Warner of this city. Frank Higgins of Madison, spent Sunday in this city with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Brink.

Mrs. Edith Colony, wife of F. E. Colony of this city, died this morning at 5:15 o'clock after a short illness with pneumonia. She was born in Sun Prairie, on July 22, 1870, her maiden name being Edith Pratt. She is survived by her husband, one son, Martin, and a daughter. Funeral notices will be given later.

Pretty Political Problem. St. Gingolph, which is on the borders of Lake Geneva, is the cause of a pretty little international problem. One part is in French and the other in Swiss territory, and a certain area is owned in common. Since 1600 this communal land has been the subject of dispute, and pourparlers were begun in 1851. These have not yet been finished, but both the French and Swiss governments are taking steps to arrive at some definite understanding. A local peculiarity is that while the French inhabitants cross the Swiss frontier to go to church, the Swiss residents proceed into French territory to worship.

KILLS TIMBER WOLF WITHIN CITY LIMITS

Joseph Struntz Shoots Animal Which Had Been Prowling About His Hog Pens.

Joseph Struntz, a farmer residing on the river road on the northern outskirts of the city, made application at the county clerk's office on Monday for a wolf bounty and exhibited the head of the animal which he said he had killed because it was prowling around his hog pens. Some doubt was expressed as to whether the scalp was that of a wolf or a dog and filed his claim for the bounty.

On Thursday night of last week Struntz was aroused by a commotion in his hog pen. When he arrived on the scene with a shotgun he found a giant animal, which he took for a timber wolf, in the act of killing one of his hogs. One hog had already been killed, its throat having been gashed into shreds by the wolf's fangs.

As soon as Struntz put in his appearance the wolf made a break to escape and made no attempt to attack. A shot from the gun struck squarely in the body and killed the animal. For several days no attention was paid to the incident as it was believed that some neighbor's dog had fallen a victim to the shot. Later, however, Mr. Struntz came to the conclusion that the animal was a wolf and filed his claim for the twenty dollars bounty.

It is believed that this wolf is one of the pack that infested Rock county a year ago. Half a dozen of the timber wolves were shot north of Jansville and others were seen by hunters and farmers. Evidently remaining members of this pack took desperate means of obtaining food by raiding the hog pens, venturing within three-fourths of a mile of the business district of Jansville.

IMITATIONS ARE NEVER AS GOOD
Common sense tells you that an imitation is never as good as the original and genuine. When any one says a cough medicine is as good as Foley's Honey and Tar, he admits that Foley's is the true standard of worth. It gets right at the trouble, cures deep-seated coughs, heals raw, inflamed surfaces, opens stopped air passages, makes breathing easy and permits sound slumber. Genuine Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and croup, costs no more than imitations. —W. T. Sherer.

LITTLE COOKSVILLE GIRL IS VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Evansville, Jan. 25.—Word has been received of the death of little Flossie Bolander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bolander, residing near Cooksville. She passed away Sunday night after an attack of pneumonia. She was nine years of age. Those who survive her are her parents, two brothers, Clarence and Willis, two sisters, Dorothy Bolander and Mrs. Agnes Soles, all of Cooksville.

LITTLE COOKSVILLE GIRL IS VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Evansville, Jan. 25.—Word has been received of the death of little Flossie Bolander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bolander, residing near Cooksville. She passed away Sunday night after an attack of pneumonia. She was nine years of age. Those who survive her are her parents, two brothers, Clarence and Willis, two sisters, Dorothy Bolander and Mrs. Agnes Soles, all of Cooksville.

On Thursday night of last week Struntz was aroused by a commotion in his hog pen. When he arrived on the scene with a shotgun he found a giant animal, which he took for a timber wolf, in the act of killing one of his hogs. One hog had already been killed, its throat having been gashed into shreds by the wolf's fangs.

As soon as Struntz put in his appearance the wolf made a break to escape and made no attempt to attack. A shot from the gun struck squarely in the body and killed the animal. For several days no attention was paid to the incident as it was believed that some neighbor's dog had fallen a victim to the shot. Later, however, Mr. Struntz came to the conclusion that the animal was a wolf and filed his claim for the twenty dollars bounty.

It is believed that this wolf is one of the pack that infested Rock county a year ago. Half a dozen of the timber wolves were shot north of Jansville and others were seen by hunters and farmers. Evidently remaining members of this pack took desperate means of obtaining food by raiding the hog pens, venturing within three-fourths of a mile of the business district of Jansville.

IMITATIONS ARE NEVER AS GOOD
Common sense tells you that an imitation is never as good as the original and genuine. When any one says a cough medicine is as good as Foley's Honey and Tar, he admits that Foley's is the true standard of worth. It gets right at the trouble, cures deep-seated coughs, heals raw, inflamed surfaces, opens stopped air passages, makes breathing easy and permits sound slumber. Genuine Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and croup, costs no more than imitations. —W. T. Sherer.
